fermentation n. //fɜːmen'teɪ.ʃən//

释义：发酵

例句：Fermentation is a biological process whereby organisms convert carbohydrates like starch or sugar into substances like alcohol, without using oxygen.

近义：brewing, culturing 反义：- substrate n. //ˈsʌb.streɪt//

释义：底物；培养基

例句：All sorts of substances are suitable - in biology those fermentation hosts are known as substrates.

近义：medium, base 反义：- bioavailable adj. //baɪ.əʊ.ə'veɪ.lə.bəl//

释义：生物可利用的

例句：He uses microorganisms to break down the hard bits of the plant and make it bioavailable for humans, while retaining the flavours.

近义：absorbable, assimilable 反义：inaccessible

bioconversion n. //baɪ.əʊ.kən'veɜː.ʒən//

释义：生物转化

例句：They become kind of a bioconversion machine where they can remove some of those complicated molecules that the human gut cannot digest.

近义：biotransformation 反义：- bioprocess n. //baɪ.əʊ'prəʊ.ses//

释义：生物工艺过程

例句：When we started the company, we were able to develop one bioprocess in two weeks.

近义：biomanufacturing 反义：- carbohydrate n. //kɑː.bəʊ'hɑɪ.dreɪt//

释义：碳水化合物

例句：Organisms convert carbohydrates like starch or sugar into substances like alcohol.

近义：starch, sugar 反义：-

cellulose n. //ˈsel.jə.ləʊs//

释义：纤维素

例句：Some waste products are rich in cellulose, which humans can't digest.

近义: fibre, roughage 反义: - digestibility n. //daɪdʒes.tə'bɪl.ə.ti//

释义: 易消化性

例句: Precision fermentation can efficiently adjust the aesthetics, aroma or flavour of a food, but also its digestibility.

近义: assimilability 反义: indigestibility

molasses n. //mə'læs.ɪz//

释义: 糖蜜

例句: MicroHarvest uses byproducts of the sugar industry, such as molasses, which isn't typically eaten in Germany.

近义: treacle, syrup 反义: -

umami n. //u:'maɪ.mi//

释义: 鲜味

discard v. //dɪˈskɑːd//

释义：丢弃；废弃

例句：Companies are taking by-products of the food industry, that are currently discarded or have little value.

近义：jettison, dump 反义：retain, keep confidential adj. //kənˈfɪ.dən.ʃəl//

释义：机密的；保密的

例句：Germany's MicroHarvest has developed a confidential process which speeds up the fermentation process.

近义：classified, secret 反义：public, disclosed desirable adj. //dɪˈzəɪ.rə.bəl//

释义：理想的；合意的

例句：They've experimented with different microorganisms to minimise off-flavours and maximise desirable flavour compounds such as umami or sweetness.

近义：sought-after, advantageous 反义：undesirable, unwanted palette n. /^lpæl.ət/

释义：一系列（可调用之物）；调色板

例句：Utilising a broader palette of substrates can save money, help the environment, and expand flavour.

近义：range, spectrum 反义：-

by-product n. /^lbaɪ.prɒd.ʌkt/

释义：副产品

近义：side stream, residue 反义：- carbohydrates n. /^lkɑ:bə'haidreɪts/

释义：碳水化合物

例句：Fermentation is a biological process whereby organisms convert carbohydrates like starch or sugar into substances like alcohol.

近义：saccharides, starches, sugars 反义：proteins, lipids side stream phr. /^lsɑɪd stri:m/

释义：工业副流；侧流物料

例句：MicroHarvest is working with sugar makers and pet food producers to convert side streams into premium pet food.

近义：waste stream, by-product flow 反义：primary output precision fermentation phr. /prɪ'sɪʒən ˌfɜːmen'teɪʃən/

释义：精准发酵（定向生物工艺）

例句：Precision fermentation involves genetically engineering microorganisms, such as moulds, to produce a specific material in a fermentation process.

近义：targeted bioprocessing, directed fermentation 反义：conventional fermentation bioengineer n. /ˌbaɪəʊˌendʒɪ'nɪə/

释义：生物工程师

例句：The bioengineer, who runs a lab at Stanford University, is experimenting with fermentation using fungi to create cheese from food waste.

近义：biotechnologist, biotech researcher 反义：- genetically engineer v. phr. /dʒɪ'netɪkli ˌendʒɪ'nɪə/

释义：对……进行基因工程改造

例句：Precision fermentation involves genetically engineering microorganisms, such as moulds, to produce a specific material in a fermentation process.
